A. STATEMENT OF GOVERNANCE PRINCIPLES AND PRACTICES

INTRODUCTION

1. Background

As the national public broadcaster, the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation («CBC/Radio-Canada» or the «Corporation») is committed to good corporate governance. The Board Governance Guide describes the Corporation's governance framework and the principles and practices the board of directors (the «Board») uses to discharge its governance responsibilities.

Its purpose is to:

- establish an effective corporate governance system that fosters transparency and accountability;
- set out the expectations of the Board, individual directors and committees of the Board; and
- assist directors in fulfilling their duties and responsibilities in the most effective manner possible.

2. Overview of the Corporation's Governance Framework

a) Legislative Mandate

The Corporation's legislative mandate and governance framework is set out in the Broadcasting Act. The current version of the Broadcasting Act, which came into force in 1991, represents the culmination of more than 60 years of public policy development for the regulation and supervision of the Canadian broadcasting system. The Broadcasting Act sets out the broadcasting policy for Canada, as well as the Corporation's legislative mandate and programming requirements. The Corporation fulfills its legislative mandate through regional, national, and international services.

In addition to its legislative mandate and programming requirements, the Corporation must comply with licensing and other regulatory requirements established by the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission («CRTC») and must meet requirements under the Radiocommunication Act.

As the national public broadcaster, the Corporation provides a comprehensive range of radio, television, satellite and digital services incorporating a wide range of programming that informs, enlightens and entertains. CBC/Radio-Canada is available how, where and when Canadians want it and brings diverse regional and cultural perspectives into the daily lives of Canadians in English, French and Indigenous languages.

b) Independence of CBC/Radio-Canada

CBC/Radio-Canada's governance model differs from the traditional corporate model and the model followed by other Crown corporations. These distinctions reflect a deliberate policy choice from Parliament to protect and enhance the freedom of expression and the journalistic, creative and programming independence enjoyed by the Corporation.

The Broadcasting Act addresses the independence of the public broadcaster. Freedom of expression and journalistic, creative and programming independence are key to the public broadcaster in the pursuit of its objects and in the exercise of its powers. The Broadcasting Act goes as far as protecting the Corporation from having to provide any information to the Government which could reasonably be expected to compromise or constrain the journalistic, creative or programming independence of the Corporation or limit the ability of the Corporation to exercise its journalistic, creative or programming independence.

In a similar vein, while the Corporation is subject to the Access to Information Act and to the Privacy Act, these statutes also provide that it does not apply to any information that relates to its journalistic, creative or programming activities, other than information that relates to its general administration.

As a result, a greater arm's length relationship is maintained between the Government and CBC/Radio-Canada than with most Crown Corporations. The Broadcasting Act also provides that officers and employees employed by the Corporation are not officers or servants of Her Majesty

c) Accountability and Reporting

The governance framework of the Corporation, as set out in the Broadcasting Act, operates to balance public accountability with the freedom of expression and the journalistic, creative and programming independence. The Corporation is accountable, through the Minister of Canadian Heritage (the «Minister»), to Parliament for the conduct of its affairs.

Each year, the Corporation submits a corporate plan to the Minister, which encompasses all of the business and activities, including investments, of the Corporation. Unlike other Crown Corporations, CBC/Radio-Canada's Corporate Plan is simply tabled with the Minister of Heritage for information rather than being submitted for Government approval. The capital budget, which is part of the plan, goes to Treasury Board for approval. Parliament also receives the Corporation's Annual Report, which contains financial statements that have been audited by the Auditor General of Canada.

It is important to note, as explained in the previous section, that the Broadcasting Act protects the Corporation from having to provide any information to the Government which could limit the freedom of expression or the journalistic, creative or programming independence enjoyed by the Corporation in the pursuit of its objects and in the exercise of its powers.

GOVERNANCE CULTURE

The Board has adopted five core governance principles that outline how work should be done and provide guidance on how decisions are to be made.

Integrity

- We behave with honesty and in good faith with a view towards the best interest of the Corporation, demonstrating integrity, openness and fairness, thereby earning and maintaining the public's trust.
- We demonstrate good judgment and professional excellence.
- We serve the public interest by demonstrating the highest ethical standards and personal integrity in all our dealings with others.
- We act in a unified and cohesive manner in supporting and guiding the President and Chief Executive Officer of the Corporation («CEO») once we have approved the strategic direction.

Independence

- We are independent, impartial and objective in carrying out our duties and responsibilities.
- We are clear about roles and responsibilities and encourage decisions to be made accordingly.

Accountability

- We are open and transparent about our activities and we manage the public sector resources responsibly, effectively and efficiently.
- We exercise the degree of care, diligence and skill that a reasonably prudent person would exercise in comparable circumstances.
- We deliver on our commitments and are accountable for our actions and decisions.

Communication

- We demonstrate an openness to other's opinions and a willingness to listen.
- We participate fully and frankly in the deliberations and discussions of the Board.
- We are honest and transparent with each other and provide open and constructive advice.
- We encourage, candid and respectful communications that builds strong relationships with each other.

Diversity

- We value and embrace our diversity and treat each other with respect, dignity and fairness, especially when our views and opinions diverge.
- We work together in a spirit of inclusiveness that encourages engagement and collaboration, as well as, innovative and fresh perspectives to issues.

PRINCIPLES AND PRACTICES

1. Appointment of Directors

The Broadcasting Act provides that the Board is comprised of twelve directors, including the Chairperson and the CEO. The positions of the Chairperson and of the CEO are separate. The Chairperson performs the duties and functions on a part-time basis and the CEO assumes the duties of the office on a full-time basis.

Each Board member, including the CEO, is appointed by the Governor in Council for a term not exceeding five years. The tenure of Board appointments are «during good behaviour» and Board members may be removed by the Governor in Council for cause. The Chairperson and the CEO are eligible for re-appointment on the expiration of their term. Any other director who has served two consecutive terms is not eligible for reappointment during the twelve months following the completion of the second term, except if appointed as Chairperson or as CEO. Directors, including the Chairperson and the CEO, perform their duties until they resign, until the end of their term or until a new director has been appointed to replace them if they are willing and able to continue.

A person is not eligible to be appointed or to continue as a Director if the person:

- is not a Canadian citizen who is ordinarily resident in Canada;
- is engaged (as owner, shareholder, director, officer, partner or otherwise), directly or indirectly, in the operation of a broadcasting undertaking;
- has any pecuniary or proprietary interest in a broadcasting undertaking; or
- is principally engaged in the production or distribution of program material that is primarily intended for use by a broadcasting undertaking.

2. Role and Responsibilities of the Board

In accordance with the Broadcasting Act, the Board is responsible for the management of the businesses, activities and other affairs of the Corporation. The role of the Board is one of oversight and, consistent with this principle, the Board has delegated the management of the Corporation's day-to-day business, activities and other affairs to the CEO. The Board also ensures that the Corporation operates at all times within applicable laws and regulations and to the highest ethical and moral standards.

Fiduciary duty and duty of care are central to the Board's duties and responsibilities. Fiduciary duty requires a director to act honestly and in good faith with a view to the best interests of the Corporation. In fulfilling this fiduciary duty to the Corporation, directors may not prefer the interests of a particular stakeholder to the best interests of the Corporation. The duty of care requires a director to exercise the care, diligence and skill that a reasonably prudent person would exercise in comparable circumstances and make an informed business judgment. As a result, directors are expected to review information and recommendations critically and carefully as to allow them to make decisions on reasonable grounds.

The Board has adopted terms of reference to assist it in its corporate governance responsibilities and to ensure that the Corporation's corporate governance practices comply with the Broadcasting Act, the Financial Administration Act and other statutes that apply to the Corporation. In carrying out its oversight role, the Board has broad authority, but this authority is subject to the provisions of the Broadcasting Act.

The CEO and the Senior Executive Team, formulate the strategies and plans and present them to the Board for approval. The Board approves the Corporation's strategic plans as well as significant projects, transactions and policies, and then, consistent with its oversight role, monitors and evaluates management's performance. Reciprocally, the CEO keeps the Board fully informed in a timely and candid manner of the progress of the Corporation towards the achievement of its objectives and of all material deviations from the goals, objectives and policies established by the Board.

The Board fulfils its oversight role, duties and responsibilities as well as its decision-making authority, directly and through board committees. The Board must act in accordance with the Broadcasting Act, and the By-Laws of the Corporation. The Board also fulfills its mandate by assuming the duties and responsibilities described in its terms of reference which elaborate on roles and responsibilities in terms of the Board's oversight, provide additional detail on Board proceedings and indicate the decisions under the sole purview of board committees. These governance instruments are reviewed periodically by the Human Resources and Governance Committee and must be approved by the Board.

3. Role of the Chairperson

The Broadcasting Act provides that the Chairperson shall preside at meetings of the Board and may exercise such powers or other duties and functions as are assigned by the By-Laws. The Chairperson performs the duties and functions of the office on a part-time basis. The Board has also adopted terms of reference for the role and responsibilities of the Chairperson. The Chairperson's primary responsibility is to manage the affairs of the Board and to lead the Board in its supervision of the management of the businesses, activities and other affairs of the Corporation. The Chairperson also has a duty to protect the journalistic, creative and programming independence enjoyed by the Corporation. The By-Laws of the Corporation also authorize the Chairperson to make public statements in the name of the Board, and in consultation with the CEO, in the name of the Corporation.

The Chairperson provides leadership to the Board to ensure it exercises proper oversight and respects the boundaries between Board and management responsibilities. The Chairperson makes sure that there are no encroachments into areas of management responsibility. The Chairperson fosters healthy relationships between directors, the CEO and the Senior Executive Team, and ensures that behaviours and decisions exemplify the governance principles adopted by the Board and the values of the Corporation of integrity, inclusiveness, relevance and creativity.

4. Role of the CEO

The President is the CEO of the Corporation. The CEO performs the duties and functions of the office on a full time basis. The CEO is responsible for establishing an ethical work environment which supports the Corporation's vision and values. The CEO fosters healthy relationships with stakeholders, the Chairperson and directors to further the best interest of the Corporation and ensures that the Board is informed on principal concerns, major developments as well as contentious or sensitive issues affecting the Corporation.

Under the Broadcasting Act, the CEO is delegated exclusive authority in respect of the «supervision over and direction of the work and staff of the Corporation». The Board does not have the authority to direct or restrict the CEO in the discharge of this aspect of the CEO's authority. The Board has also passed By-Laws delegating to the CEO responsibility and general authority for the management of the business, activities and other affairs of the Corporation. To clearly delineate the division of authority, the Board has also adopted terms of reference for the role and responsibilities for the CEO as well as a document detailing signing authority.

5. Directors' Core Attributes, Skills and Experience

The membership of the Board should include representation of the geographical regions of Canada and maintain a balance of gender, cultural and linguistic representation to ensure that the Board represents the diversity of Canada's population and its regions.

The Board expects every director to possess core attributes, skills and experience that are fundamental to the Board's overall effectiveness as detailed in the Selection Criteria for the Chairperson, the CEO and the Directors as approved by the Board.

6. Ethical Conduct and Conflicts of Interest

The Board expects all of its members to comply with the Corporation's policies that apply to directors as well as the various Board governance instruments. These include the Broadcasting Act, the By-Laws, the Board and Committee terms of reference, the CBC/Radio-Canada Employee related expenses and reimbursement Policy and the Conflict of Interest Act «COIA». Directors should also act in accordance with the Expected Behaviours of CBC/Radio-Canada's Code of conduct. Adherence to the Code of conduct is a condition of employment for CBC/Radio-Canada employees.

Each member is expected to act honestly and in good faith with a view to the best interests of the Corporation. Board members are also expected to demonstrate personal and professional characteristics beyond reproach. These characteristics include high ethical standards and integrity, leadership, trust and commitment. The Board further expects all of its members to make meaningful commitments during their time as directors of the Corporation understanding the difference between the Board's role of oversight and management's responsibility for the day-to-day operations.

Specifically, each Board member is expected to commit the necessary time required to attend regular and special meetings and to be an effective, focused and fully contributing member of the Board and of each Board committee on which they serve. They must maintain the confidentiality of the Corporation's information and Board and committee deliberations. Each member is expected to support Board decisions and act in solidarity so as to not undermine them. Moreover, they are expected to become generally knowledgeable of the business of the Corporation and the broadcasting industry, and gain an understanding of the legislative, regulatory, business, social and political environments within which the Corporation operates as to assist them in discharging their duties

Directors are subject to the COIA, certain provisions of the Financial Administration Act, and the Government's Ethical and Political Activities Guidelines for Public Office Holders.

Under the COIA, Directors are designated as «Public Office Holders» and are in a conflict of interest when they exercise an official power, duty or function that provides an opportunity to further their private interests or those of their relatives or friends, or to improperly further another person's private interests. Accordingly, the COIA requires Directors to arrange their private affairs to prevent conflicts of interest and to recuse themselves from any discussion, decision, debate or vote if they have a conflict of interest.

The COIA expressly prohibits Directors from:

- participating in decisions that would involve a conflict of interest;
- taking any action aimed at circumventing the COIA;
- providing preferential treatment to any person or organization based on the identity of the person or organization representing them;
- using information that is not available to the public to further private interests;
- using their position to influence a decision in order to further private interests;
- being influenced in exercising their duties by offers of outside employment;
- accepting any gift or other advantage that might reasonably be seen to have been given to influence them in exercising their official duties;
- entering into a contract or employment relationship, in the exercise of their official duties, with a spouse, common-law partner, child, sibling or parent, or permitting the entity for which they work to do so; and
- personally soliciting funds if it places them in a conflict of interest.

In addition, the COIA prohibits former Directors from:

- acting in a manner that takes improper advantage of their previous office;
- acting for or on behalf of any person or organization in connection with any specific proceeding, transaction, negotiation or case where the Crown is a party and where they had acted for, or provided advice to, the Crown while in public office; and
- providing advice to clients, business associates or employers using information that was acquired in the course of their official duties and that is not available to the public.

The Government's Ethical and Political Activities Guidelines for Public Office Holders, which Directors certify that they will comply with as a condition of their appointment, stipulates that Public Office Holders:

- shall act with honesty and uphold the highest ethical standards;
- have an obligation to perform their duties and arrange their private affairs in a manner that will bear the closest public scrutiny, an obligation that is not fully discharged by simply acting within the law;
- shall, in fulfilling their official duties and functions, make decisions in the public interest;
- shall not participate in a political activity that is, or that may reasonably be seen to be incompatible with their duties or reasonably seen to impair the ability to discharge their public duties in a politically impartial fashion or would cast doubt on the integrity or impartiality of the office.

The Corporation's By-Laws stipulate the manner in which disclosures are made, mainly: (a) at a meeting of the Board at which the proposed contract is first considered; (b) if the Director was not at the time of the meeting interested in the proposed contract or transaction at the first meeting of the board after he/she becomes so interested; (c) if the Director becomes interested after the contract or transaction is made, at the first meeting of the Board after he/she becomes so interested; or (d) if the Director was interested in the contract or transaction before becoming a Director, at the first meeting of the Board after he/she becomes a Director by completing or updating the Directors' Annual Declaration Form; by writing to the Corporate Secretary; or by requesting an entry in the minutes of the Board or its committees.

7. Meeting Procedures

The Board needs to hold a minimum of six regularly scheduled meetings each year at which it reviews and approves corporate plans and budgets, and discusses the overall performance of the Corporation as well as immediate issues facing the Corporation. Directors are encouraged to suggest to the Chairperson items they would like to have considered for the meeting agenda.

Quorum, as indicated in the Interpretation Act, should be at least one-half of the 12 fixed board positions, including the Chairperson and the CEO. This translates into six Board members for the transaction of business.

Information and pre-reading materials supporting Board meeting agenda items are provided to directors approximately seven days before the meeting. Such materials focus attention on the critical issues to be considered by the Board. Directors are expected to prepare in a way which ensures that the meeting time can focus on questions from directors and discussion on the materials they have received.

Directors have access to the Senior Executive Team through the Corporate Secretariat. Committee chairs will receive the support of the designated member of the Senior Executive Team in the normal course of preparing for an upcoming Board committee meeting. It is understood that requests should not unduly detract management from its day-to-day operational responsibilities.

As CBC/Radio-Canada is subject to the Official Languages Act, presentations and exchanges will be made in the participants' language of choice.

Collaboration, willingness to listen, constructive intent, efficiency, solidarity and respect are key principles for all Board and Committee meetings. This allows directors and management to work productively together to best serve the public interest.

At each Board and committee meeting, time is reserved for directors to meet in camera. The Audit Committee meets in camera with the external auditor, the internal auditor, the chief financial officer and with only independent directors present. The Board and its committees may engage independent outside advisors as described below.

8. Board Committees and Pension Board of Trustees

To help the Board fulfill its duties and responsibilities and ensure full review of certain matters, the Board has delegated certain duties, responsibilities and decision-making authority to Board committees, as it deems necessary or appropriate.

Each committee has adopted terms of reference which have been approved by the Board that set out the purposes and responsibilities of the committee, as well as committee structure and operations, scope of authority, and reporting to the Board on its activities. Directors are expected to be available to participate on Board committees as required. The Chairperson reviews committee memberships and chair positions, and proposes changes to the Human Resources and Governance Committee for recommendation to the Board for approval. The Board seeks to rotate committee members or chairs periodically, with consideration given to the desires of individual directors and with the objective of having a blend of continuity and fresh perspectives on each committee. The Board also delegates two financially literate directors to serve on the CBC/Radio-Canada Pension Board of Trustees, which is an entity that is independent of the Corporation.

The terms of reference describe the chair's key responsibilities to manage the committee's affairs and ensure that the committee carries out its mandate effectively. Like the Chairperson, each committee chair is expected to provide leadership to enhance the committee's effectiveness and oversee the committee's discharge of its duties and responsibilities. Committee chairs also report regularly to the Board on the business of their committee and make recommendations as necessary or appropriate.

The Board is currently supported by the following committees:

1. Audit Committee
2. Human Resources and Governance Committee
3. Standing Committee on English Language Broadcasting and the Standing Committee on French Language Broadcasting
4. Strategic Planning Committee
5. Technology and Infrastructure Committee

The Human Resources and Governance Committee annually reviews the Board's committee structure and makes recommendations to the Board, as appropriate in light of the Board's evolving priorities, needs and the Corporation's circumstances.

9. Ombudsman

The individuals acting as Ombudsman of the Corporation report directly, through the CEO, to the Corporation's Board. They are independent of the Corporation's program staff and management. They prepare and present a mid-year update report and an annual report to the Board summarizing how complaints were dealt with and reviewing the main issues handled by their Offices over the relevant period.

10. Director Remuneration

The Chairperson and the CEO are compensated in accordance with the terms of the Order-in-Council appointing them. The CEO receives an annual salary, while the Chairperson receives an annual retainer of $14,500 to $17,100 and a per diem of $565 to $665 for meetings, travel time and special executive, analytical or representational responsibilities paid in accordance with the laws of Ontario where the head office is located.

The remuneration scheme for directors (other than the CEO and the Chairperson), established by a By-Law approved by the Minister, can be summarized as follows:

Meetings		Board of Directors	Audit Committee	Other Committees
Regular Meetings	Attendance (including meetings by video-conference)	For the first 6 regular meeting days: $2,000/day	For the first 6 regular meeting days: $1,300/day for members and $1,550 for the Chair	For the first 4 regular meeting days: $1,000/day for members and $1,250 for the Chair
		Thereafter: $625/day	Thereafter: $625/day	Thereafter: $625/day
	Participation by telephone	$625/day or $312.50/half-day	$250/day	$250/day
Conference Call Meetings		$250/day	$250/day	$250/day

Directors are entitled to receive only one meeting fee for each day (24 hours) even if they attend more than one meeting during that period.

Directors are also reimbursed, in accordance with the Corporation's Employee Related Expenses and Reimbursement Policy, for travel expenditures incurred to attend meetings of the Board or its committees.

The Chairperson and directors are expected to provide expense claims as soon as possible but no later than 30 days after the expense was made.

11. Director Orientation and Education

The Human Resources and Governance Committee oversees the orientation for new directors and the continuing education opportunities provided by the Corporation. Upon joining the Board, new directors receive an orientation through briefings by members of the Senior Executive Team. The orientation provides new directors with an understanding of the Corporation's governance framework, its strategic, business and corporate plans, its financial statements, and its key policies and practices. Moreover, directors may bring suggestions to the Chair of the Human Resources and Governance Committee and to the Corporate Secretariat about continuing education opportunities organized by the Corporation or specialized firms on topics of interest.

12. Assessment of the Board, Committee and Individual Director Effectiveness

The Human Resources and Governance Committee is responsible for assessing the annual performance and effectiveness of the Board and the Chairperson, the Board committees and their structure, as well as individual directors, with a view to examining how the Board is operating and make suggestions for improvement. Although the scope and focus of such review may vary from year to year, the review includes an assessment of the Chairperson and of the directors, which is administered by the Corporate Secretariat. The aggregated, anonymous results are reviewed by the Human Resources and Governance Committee and the Chair of the Human Resources and Governance Committee reports the findings, including key recommendations to the full Board for discussion. The Chairperson also meets individually with each Board member to discuss that member's individual director assessment.

13. Access to Independent Advisors

An independent outside advisor can only be retained for the Board, at the expense of the Corporation, in exceptional circumstances that are necessary in the public interest and in particular, where the Board or a committee requires independent advice to make an informed decision on a matter that is not in respect of the day-to-day management of the Corporation. Independent outside advisor expertise can be in accounting, financial, legal or other matters. The Board has delegated to the Human Resources and Governance Committee the decision to retain independent outside advisors. A request to retain an independent outside advisor must be made in writing to the Human Resources and Governance Committee, providing the background information as well as the reasons supporting the request. In considering a request, the Human Resources and Governance Committee will consult with the Corporate Secretary. The final decision to hire outside advisors is made by the Human Resources and Governance Committee with the full knowledge of the Board, CEO and Corporate Secretary. The independent advisor will be selected in consultation with the Corporate Secretary.

14. Role of the Corporate Secretariat

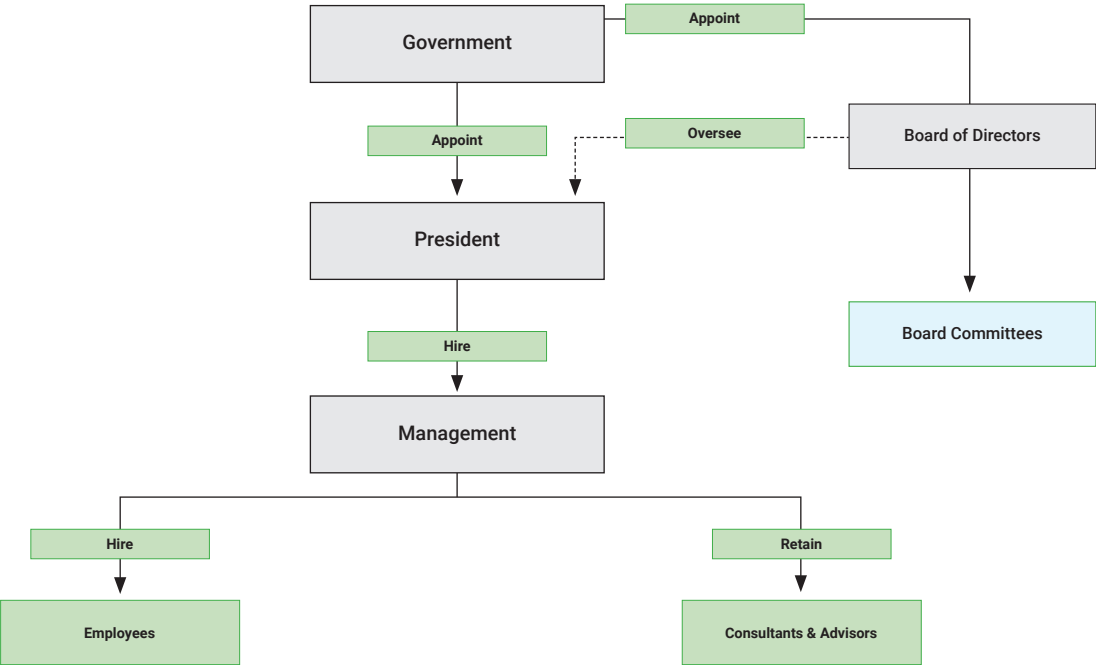

The Corporate Secretariat supports the Board, as well as its committees and the directors, by providing support and governance advice, including on matters relating to conflicts of interest, ethical conduct and political activities. The Corporate Secretariat's terms of reference provide a detailed description of its role and activities.

15. Periodic Review

This statement of governance principles and practices may be reviewed periodically by the Human Resources and Governance Committee, in consultation with the Corporate Secretariat, to ensure that it continues to be appropriate and the Committee may make recommendations to the Board for approval.
